

You & I

~~~ Suryanjali Jha

It was such a lovely day when we were together. The way you held my hand and chose me over everyone, you were the one I was waiting for. You brought my chaos down and set a peaceful alarm. I was satisfied to get a person like you; that was all I wanted. You were not after my body; you captured my soul and made me realize my worth. You gave me the support I needed for a lifetime. I reached all the levels of happiness with you; you were always at my back; the sun shines brighter than before; the moon is peaceful; I can sleep in your arms forever; and I would never ever want to leave your side. You have gifted me the time that wasn't given by anyone earlier; you held me at my lowest and lifted me up with love and support. I realized this on the day we were together.

Something is disturbing me. The inner voice warned me: I neglected it; you and I were enough; you and I were meant for a lifetime. I was smiling a little bit more, and I was enjoying it like never before. We were perfect. But then I realized there is nothing perfect in this world, and I woke up from my dreams to reality. You were not there; you were in someone else's arms, and I missed you. It was a horrible day for me when you came, but in my dream, reality is hard, but I will still wait one day for this dream to come true!

~~~ Suryanjali Jha is currently pursuing Master's degree in English Literature in Indira Kala Sangeet Vishwavidyalaya Khairagarh C.G. (491881). Email Id: suryanjalij@gmail.com